Making breakfast – pumpkin pancakes & regular pancakes. Had a warm building for the weekend!

Sergeant Floyd is a historic museum boat, serving as the Sergeant Floyd River Museum & Welcome Center at 1000 Larsen Park Road in Sioux City, Iowa. Built in 1932 as a utility vehicle and towboat, she is one of a small number of surviving vessels built specifically for the United States Army Corps of Engineers in its management of the nation's inland waterways. The boat has been restored and drydocked, and now houses exhibits about the Missouri River and local tourism information. The museum is a facility of the Sioux City Public Museum.

The Warrior Hotel

Constructed during the Gilded Age, The Warrior Hotel illuminated the skyline of Sioux City, Iowa for well over forty years. After a complete renovation, this architectural landmark reimagines its luxurious Art Deco history with a rich palette, elegant furnishings, and refined details. A grand staircase and ornate architectural elements are restored to their original glory and complement the consciously modern design. A glamorous and distinct Midwestern destination, The Warrior Hotel embraces its celebrated past to create is "Simply Sioux City"™.
