West Lookout Tower, Vista #1 Map makers lived in the upper level while horses and livestock were stabled below.

Hesitation Point, Vista #2. Most popular in Brown Co. St. Park. See the horizon in the distance? It is 5 miles away.

Friends Trail, Vista #3. Did you know it's the highest point in the entire county is 1,058 ft above sea level?

Weed Patch Hill, Vista #4. Prime real estate for pioneer farming. A family of 10 lived here in late 1800's; early photos show an orchard and a garden near the cabin.

Nature Center, Vista #5. Take in a magnificent view of Strahl Lake Valley from observation deck, catch a glimpse of birds and animals at the wildlife pond. Stop in the Nature Center to explore interactive exhibits featuring bees, turtles, snakes, and more.

CCC, Vista #6. Stunning overlook as far as the eye can see. It is named in honor of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), a group of World War 1 veterans who set up camp here in the 1930's while working in Brown County State Park.

Hohen Point, Vista #7. Named after either, Frank Hohenberger, a well-known artist who spent 47 years photographing Brown County, or the German word "höhen" meaning high ground. The rolling terrain is typical of southern Indiana due to unglaciated sandstone.

Registered: Artie & Pam Martin, Chris & Nancy Seplak, Carl & Ann Leslie, Christine Majers, John & Susan Swearingen, Bernie & Mary Taylor, Floyd & Linda Hattan, John Schwenke, Richard & Dorothy Hankins.
